The History of Medieval Canon Law in the Classical Period

April 13th, 2020 - This latest volume in the ongoing History of Medieval Canon Law series covers the period from Gratian's initial teaching of canon law during the 1120s to just before the promulgation of the Decretals of Pope Gregory IX in 1234.

Gratian's contributions to the birth of canon law and European jurisprudence were significant. He introduced a new branch of learning, the schools of law, which became the foundation for the later development of canon law.

Because canon law does not consist of a finite body of statutes but rather of the teachings of scholars, Gratian's Decretum became the starting point for further developments in the field. The work of Gratian is of course the principal focus, but the studies then follow the spread of the teaching of law from its inception at Bologna in the 1140s to its appearance soon after in other centres of learning in the West.
